THE GEORGIA CYCLONES.

Their Terrible Work Renewed--Three Hundred Persons Killed and Fifteen Hundred Wounded-Relief for the Sut-

Correspondence of the Louisville Courier-Journal. Augusta, Ga., March 24.—The recent cyclone which passed over this region was the most awful ever heard of in the United States. I have been along a portion of its track, and, having just returned, will endeavor to give the readers of your paper an account of it.

It crossed the Chattahoochee river from Lee county, Alabama, and entered Harris county, Georgia. From thence it passed through the counties of Talbot, Upson, Monroe, Jones, Baldwin, Han-cock, Warren, McDuffie, and Columbia. It crossed the Savannah river fifteen miles above Augusta, entered Edgefield county, South Carolina, passed through Barnwell, Lexington, Richland, Sumter, Marion and Horry counties, of that state, and finally ran into the Atlantic ocean off the coast of North Carolina.

A second cyclone, precisely at the same time, seemed to have formed this side of Milledgeville, crossed the Ogeechee river 15 miles below the village of Mayfield, in Hancock county, and passing through Glascock and the lower edge of Richmoud, crossed the Savannah, 12 miles below Augusta, into Beech island, South Carolina, and from thence ran due east into the Atlantic.
As I was along the northern one of these cyclones, I will more particularly describe that. The two were exactly alike in size, shape, color, and devasta They were both the most terrible visitations ever sent by Providence upon he states of Georgia and South Caro-

The cloud was, in color, inky black, half a mile high, half a mile wide, was cylindrical in shape, and traveled very much like a revolving barrel, coming end foremost. It was illuminated with phosphorescent light, and momentarily would glitter as if one million matches had been ignited in it.

It was accompanied by a continuous. roaring sound, as of five hundred can non in the decisive moments of a pitched battle. The bravest man ever born could neither have felt, seen, nor heard it with calmness. There was a force and a power, a sublimity and grandenr about it unnatural, awful, wholly its But a thousand incidents are related showing that the hand of Provi-dence was in it—that it was governed y laws as regular and immutable as is the sun.

It traveled from west to a little north of due east, going as straight as a crane or a cannon ball would fly. It passed over the entire state of Georgia in exactly three hours, traveling at the rate of fifty-three miles per hour.

You have already seen and republished from the Georgia papers in detail the thrilling incidents and terrible re-sults which marked the course of the cyclone, and this letter is simply to give you the general results.

Six thousand dollars have been subscribed in Augusta, $5,000 in Columbus, and many thousands at other points for the wounded and suffering. A great many packages of money, provisions, and clothing were forwarded yesterday and to day from this city. Never was charity more fitly bestowed. The whole number of killed in Georgia will not fall below three hundred, and the wounded will reach fifteen hundred. Captain Stovall died last night. He was a gallant officer in the confederate was a gallant officer in the confederate army. Reports are coming in by the hour of the deaths of other victims of this unparalleled calamity.

Through Carolina the devastation and death were equally as great. The southern cyclone crossed the Savannah at Fury's ferry, sunk the boat, struck the plantation of Mr. Foreman, tore it to mean and killed and recorded. to pieces, and killed and wounded a great many on it. From thenceforward to the ocean the accounts are as terrible and as appalling.

On the 4th day of April, 1804, now lacking but a few days of 71 years, a mond, crossing the Savannah 15 miles of the lake-unheard of before, but above Augusta. There are a few people | which is to rank among the wonders of it, and plenty

The points of contact between religion and medicine vary according to the side from which their relation is regarded. Viewed from the side of religion they are many and various, as ligion they are many and various, as our medical missionary societies testify. Looked at, however, from a medical point of view, they touch only at one or two almost isolated pinces. Emotion is the motive power on which, for the most part, our religious leaders have relied to stir men's minds to effect what is termed, with more or less justice, their conversion. To effect this much force is needed, and in those whose minds are in a condition of unstable equilibrium the resulting perturbation equilibrium the resulting perturbation is sufficient to disturb the normal balis sufficient to disturb the normal bal-ance of thought and feeling, and start a series of consequences which may result in pronounced insanity. That this is a frequent occurrence may be doubted. Religious illusions are com-mon enough in the insane, but that probably arises from the region of thought and feeling presenting the most unobstructed field for excessive action. It is in periods of reviews when action. It is in periods of revivals when religious emotion is stirred in dispro-portionate degree that the danger of such results is greatest, and this aspect of a movement so extensive as that now of a movement so extensive as that now commenced in London comes fairly within the range of the physician's consideration. Judging, however, from personal observations, we should say that no movement of its extent could well present less danger of excessive or perverted emotional effects than that of Messrs. Moody and Sankey. The testimony of most unprejudiced observers is to the same effect. The services are singularly free from the more objectionable element of 'revival' meetings. Sympathetic, but not over-meetings. Sympathetic, but not over-wrought music, and shrewd, rough aptness—sometimes humor—of the sermon are the characteristics which artificial stimulation of the emotions more than necessarily attends the ex-tempore worship and earnest preaching in a large concourse.—London Lancel.

The Ternado in Caldwell Parish.

We are indebted to a friend in Colum bia for the following interesting de-scription of the tornado at Ray's Point on the Quachita:

COLUMBIA, LA., March 22, 1875. Between 4 and 5 o'clock, p. m., on the 19th inst., there occurred in this vicinity a cyclone, which in terrific grandeur and devastating horror sur-passed anything of the kind ever known in this country. For more than two hours previous to the out-burst of this tornado, we had heavy thunder and sharp, vivid flashes of lightning, and it became so dark about 4 o'clock that lamps and candles were lighted in the dwellings and business houses of the village for purposes of reading, writing, etc. A large and flourishing plantation on the east bank of the Ouachita, four miles above town, known as "Ray's Point," and owned by J. Levy, a commis-sion merchant of New Orleans, and L. F. Redditt, Esq., the business manager on the farm, was the chief scene of the disaster, in this terrible tempest. A large force of farm laborers resided on the premises, who, together with their respective families, numbered considerably over one hundred souls. These families were domiciled in small tenement houses, scattered at convenient distances over the farm. Every house on the plantation except the gin, and dwelling of Mr. Redditt, was blown down, and scattered in the wildest con-fusion, over an area of hundreds of The furniture, bedding, clothing and everything in their houses were scattered broadcast over the earth. The fencing, ont-houses, cribs, stables, etc., were all swept away as with a besom of destruction. Mr. James Adair, a worthy, industrious and intelligent mechanics on the place health of the control of ligent mechanic, on the place, had one of his children, a bright and promising boy of five or six years, instantly killed and his wife, an esteemed lady, so severely injured that she died in great agony a few hours after. A little negro boy was instantly killed, and many others, both white and colored, seriously bruised and disabled. The wind was accompanied with such torrents of rain as in a few moments to submerge the earth.

The writer arrived at the scene of disaster and death some two hours after the sterm had passed. The terrible spectacle presented beggars description. With characteristic benevolence the neighbors flocked in from the surrounding country, each eager to render what aid they could to ameliorate the condi tion of the sufferers. The young men and physicians of the village, as soon as notified, repaired promptly to the spot, and made a tender of their services, and early this morning a handsome little purse was made up by the voluntary contributions of the citizens of the village, among the foremost of whom was the ladies—for the benefit of Mr. Adair-the chief sufferer. It will require immense labor and thousands of dollars to reinstate the owners, for the damage done in a few brief moments by this ruthless tempest .- Ouachita Telegraph.

A Boiling Lake.

The Troy Times prints a letter from a citizen of that place, at present so-journing in the island of Dominique, West Indies, from which the following is an extract:

It is barely a month since Dr. Freeland, in search of sulphur, in behalf of an English company, accompanied by Dr. Nicholls, of this island, with a few servants, started on a tour of explora-tion. At a distance from town in an air line, of some eight or ten miles only, yet by the necessarily circuitous route to reach it requiring some days of severe On the 4th day of April, 1804, now lacking but a few days of 71 years, a great storm like this came up from the direction of Dooly county, and passed through Hancock, Warren, and Rich ground an old volcano. Its height above the sea is about 2,400 feet. They descended about 400 feet down the crater It is literally a lake of boilhe world. who have been told by their parents of it. It was described in the Augusta Chronicle. All accounts are agreed that it was illuminated by the same strange light as the one Saturday. Nobody was killed by it.

It is literally a lake of boiling water. It is half a mile wide and two miles in circumference. In the center the boiling, foamy water juts upward in a sort of dome, several feet higher than the surface, and where the rippling waves break upon the shore the head waves break upon the shore rippling waves break upon the shore the hand cannot be immersed without A "ledical Journal on the Influence of Religious Revivals.

asked if Mr. Morris had the new songs.

"Certainly," said that gentleman, stepping spryly back of the counter; "which one do you wish?"

"Have you got that air piece called—called—"here the young man paused and stared wildly about the store, and then suddenly added—"called Gray Hairs in the Butter."

"What's that?" said Mr. Morris, rubbing his hands in painul abstraction."

"That's it, by gum!" shouted the young man in a burst of pleasure.
Mr. Morris had it.

THEODORE THOMAS, of Thomas' orchestra, than whom there is no higher musical authority in the world, says there are no other cabinet or parlor or gans equal to those made by the Mason & Hamlin Organ Co., and that musicians agree with him in this opinion. *

-It is said that nothing will cure a mark the service from most ordinary poet's affection for his idol sooner than reaching of the same theological to catch her at the dinner-table excaschool; and there is nothing to point to vating the kernel of a hickory-nut with a hair-pin.

> PATENT MEDICINES, -There are some good patent medicines no intelligent man dare for a moment deny; and preeminent is the great California hero medicine, Vinegar Bitters, discovered by Dr. J. Walker, a prominent physician of San Francisco. This medicine, although called Bitters, is not to be classed among the vile "fancy drinks" recommended and sold over the her by recommended and sold over the bar by rum-venders, but is a combination of pure herbalistic extracts, known to possess sterling medicinal qualities, and is compounded without the use in any shape of spirits. Its action upon the internal system is not stimulating to the extent that alcoholic poison is, but it at once attacks blood-impurities, and by removing the original cause destroys the germs of disease and invites returning health. Its action upon the stomach and liver render it an almost certain specific in the most stubborn cases of dyspepsia, and in truth imparts new life and vigor to the whole system. It is one of the best medicines ever invented.

> A HINT TO THE WORKING MAN. - A A HIST TO THE WORKING MAN.—A man with a family, however poor he may be owes it to his wife to save her health and strength in every way possible. He has no right to allow the mother of his children to wear her life out toiling with her needle to clothe her family. His duty is to buy the Wilson shuttle sewing machine, the best machine for family sewing and manufacturing nurposes ever invented, and he can buy the Wilson machine upon terms which enable him to pay for it in small monthly installments Wilson machine upon terms which enable him to pay for it in small monthly installments that he can spare out of his wages without feeling the drain. He will get, thereby, a machine capable of doing every variety of family work in the most beautiful manner; a machine that even a child can operate, and which will prove a permanent family ble-sing. Machines will be delivered at any railroad station in this country, free of transportation charges, if ordered through the company's branch house at 189 Canal St.. New Orleans, La. They send an elegant catalogue and chrome circular free on application. This company want a few more agents.

THE HUMAN HAIR .- How many persons abuse this delicate and beautiful orna-ment, by burning it with alcoholic washes and ment, by butting it with atcononic wastes and plastering it with grease, which has no affinity for the skin, and is not absorbed. Burnett's Cocoaine, a compound of cocoanut oil, etc., is nur-valed as a dressing for the hair—is readily absorbed, and is peculiarly adapted to its various conditions, preventing its falling off and promoting its healthy growth.
